Art Meets Opportunity

By Adie Lipton

GICLEE (ZHEECLAY) is a French word meaning "to squirt or to spray." It is a giant step in fine art reproduction technology because the most sophisticated equipment is used to incorporate the highest quality inks, along with extremely sharp high resolution. The result is the most outstanding, reproduction of fine art. A new art technique, Giclee is considered the world's best technique for the reproduction of original works of canvas art. Giclee prints are on canvas and look and feel like original art.

Through the use of very sophisticated computer technology, tiny squirts or sprays of colors, exactly matching the original painting, are sprayed on a canvas. This reproduces the original painting with incredible accuracy and texture.

Due to this ability to print with a high image quality on canvas, many artists who were previously opposed to the reproduction of their artwork trust this method and use it quite frequently. Now, through this method, fabulous works of art have become affordable to almost everyone.

INTERNATIONAL GALLERIES, INC. (IGI) is making significant history in the multi-trillion dollar art industry. It has become the second largest art gallery in the world in just two short years. IGI produces quality limited edition Giclee prints from the original art that it owns exclusively. Each reproduction is in a numbered limited series and all limited edition Giclees are accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity, signed by the actual artists who validate the limited edition. These collectibles are only available through IGI and its membership base and cannot be purchased elsewhere. When a limited edition is sold out, it will never be reproduced again.
